

MEDIATOR PROFILE

JONATHAN ANGELL

Jonathan Angell is a CEDR accredited mediator.

Jonathan has practised as a commercial litigator for over 30 years and has a wide-ranging experience of a variety of commercial disputes, with particular expertise in professional indemnity claims, insurance disputes and general contractual disputes. He also has experience of claims in the property and construction fields.

He has participated in over 50 mediations, sometimes as legal adviser and sometimes as client. As such, he has seen the mediation process from all sides. The vast majority of the mediations in which Jonathan has participated have resulted in a settlement.

Jonathan currently works as a Consultant to Reynolds Porter Chamberlain and to Countrywide plc. He has experience and an understanding of the needs of the client through his involvement in an in-house role and appreciates the drivers which influence businesses to resolve their disputes. He is highly numerate, which can help in understanding complex financial issues but can also assisting in helping the parties to fully appreciate the consequences of proposals made during the mediation.

He writes articles on cases of interest and importance for the legal profession in the areas in which he specialises.

Jonathan believes that mediation can resolve even the most intractable of disputes. This belief helps provide the energy and enthusiasm which is often needed to assist the parties to progress their discussions to an acceptable conclusion of their dispute.
